

Not all Situational Assessments are Alike

Situational assessments play a pivotal role in the evaluation of loss, rehabilitation strategy and the physical, cognitive and emotional wellbeing of clients who have serious impairments. It will not come as a surprise, then, why we take a number of client-specific factors into consideration when planning and proposing their scope and methodology.

Our situational assessments fit specific circumstances, limitations and client aspirations, and we apply our customary rigour when we plan and conduct them ...and report the results.
